

June 22nd, 2011

National Weather Service Honolulu

Change to Fire Weather, Non-Precipitation, and Winter Weather Products

Effective immediately on Wednesday June 22nd, 2011 the National Weather Service office in Honolulu will begin issuing fire weather warning products (RFW), non-precipitation products (NPW), and winter weather products (WSW) in a new bulleted format, similar to the format used in marine weather warning (MWW), and coastal flood products (CFW).

The content of the messages will remain the same, and the only noticeable changes will be to how the information is displayed.

If you have questions regarding this product change, please do not hesitate to contact Mike Cantin with the NWS Honolulu at michael.cantin@noaa.gov or 973-5275.